

This Is Your Library!

There's no mistaking it, this is your library...whether you're a college student looking to complete a special research project online or you are a house wife looking for investment strategies, this is your library. With that said we're your one stop for satisfying your information needs. And, although we might already be fulfilling your desires with regard to information, we want you to know that we are working hard to keep you satisfied. So, if you want to be heard, send us an email at sslpost@sulphurspringstx.org or fill out a comments form next time you stop by the library.

Are you ready for the ultimate competition challenge? Bring your game face on, because Checkers and Chums is back and we're looking forward to gaining some new champions. This Thursday, January 26th from 6-7 p.m. in the Teen Center.

We are excited at the activities we have planned for everyone this year and hope to add more in the months to come. For updates and the latest on other events at the library go to our website at: www.sslibrary.org or follow us on Facebook and Twitter.

New Arrivals:

Books:

In the Garden of Beasts: Larsen

Publisher's Weekly notes this to be a "mesmerizing portrait of the Nazi capital...more diabolical than The Devil in the White City." A non-fiction account of a Roosevelt ambassador and his dealings in Nazi Germany.

Tim Tebow: Through My Eyes

"I first heard about Tim Tebow when he was a senior in high school, and I have followed his career closely since then. I've grown to admire his leadership, his drive, and his Christian character. Tim has always made the people around him better, on and off the field. That's what winners do, and Tim is a winner in every sense of the word. This book will show you how that leadership, heart and character were developed." -Tony Dungy, former NFL coach, best-selling author, and Emmy-nominated TV analyst

Gone but Not Lost: David W. Wiersbe

"This book was given to us soon after our 3y/o son died. He was bumped by a car and died instantly. I found it very helpful to read and reread. And I have given a number of them away, and have received feedback that it was a very helpful book." Karla - Christianbook.com

DVDs:

X-files Collection

The Harry Potter Collection

Music:

Carol Kidd: Dreamsville

Theatre of the Unheard: Darrell Scott

Did you know we offer both the New York Times and Wall Street Journal daily at the library?
